The Wood Library-Museum of Anesthesiology (WLM) invites nominations of individuals for the sixth Laureate of the History of Anesthesia to be presented in 2016.

The award was conceived by Dr. Nicholas M. Greene, created by the Trustees of the WLM in 1993, and first awarded to Dr. Gwenifer Wilson of Sydney, Australia in 1996. This quadrennial award honors outstanding scholars who have made original contributions that enrich and advance the understanding of anesthesia history. The internationally constituted Laureate Committee will consider nominations of historians and physician historians, not limited to anesthesiologists, regardless of gender, nationality, ethnicity, place of residence or age. Selection is based on the nominee’s outstanding work as reflected by publication of books, monographs and peer-reviewed articles, other creative and acclaimed presentations of anesthesia history, and a record of mentoring and encouraging others in the field. To learn more about the Laureate program and previous awardees, visit www.woodlibrarymuseum.org/laureate.

The 2016 Laureate will be announced at the conclusion of the Lewis H. Wright Memorial Lecture, held at the annual meeting of the American Society of Anesthesiologists in October 2015. This allows the honoree to be present for the investiture and to present, if willing, the Lewis H. Wright Memorial Lecture in 2016 in Chicago, the site of the ANESTHESIOLOGY™ 2016 annual meeting. The award is accompanied by an honorarium and a suitably inscribed medallion and certificate. If more than one Laureate is named, as happened in 2000, the honorarium will be shared. There are no other prescribed duties of the honoree, although the Trustees of the WLM hope the Laureate will remain active and productive, advancing the study of the history of anesthesia.

All nominations and the following supporting documents, in English or translated to English, must be received by the WLM not later than April 30, 2015:

1. A nominating letter giving a detailed assessment of the value and merit of the candidate’s achievements in the field of anesthesia history and containing a sample of the nominee’s historical writing limited to not more than 50 pages. This letter of nomination will be a significant factor in the selection of the Laureate;

2. The nominee’s curriculum vitae and complete bibliography;

3. A signed statement by the nominee that he/she agrees to the submission of his/her name as a candidate for the award. Nominations lacking this signed statement cannot be considered.

Other supporting letters and materials demonstrating the nominee’s achievements and contributions may be helpful, but are not required. Previously unsuccessful nominations may be resubmitted by updating the nominating letter, curriculum vitae, bibliography and candidate’s statement. Electronic submission of all nomination materials is encouraged. Please send them to: Karen Bieterman, Head Librarian and Director of the Wood Library-Museum, at k.bieterman@asahq.org.

Additional information regarding the Laureate of the History of Anesthesia program may be obtained by contacting Karen Bieterman at k.bieterman@asahq.org. Please include “Laureate” in the subject line.
